Geographic laboratory brings science to life

By Chen Xiaotong

The students at Wuhan No.11 High School in Qiaokou District were viewing starry nights from their classroom on April 19. The school is a test site for Smart Class, a 2015 project to bring technology into the classroom.

The classroom is a geographic laboratory that brings science to life for the high school students. By the push of a key on the teacher's iPad or one of the students' iPads, the astronomy class can view and study the constellations in the universe through the use of a large domed classroom and projector much like a planetarium.
