

STAGE

Carmen

Ballet Flamenco de Madrid, a proud representative of Spain, regularly travels with the Spanish royal family for visiting shows. Famous for their classical repertoire with noble, unrestrained, and luxurious features, Carmen is one of their most classic performances. The expressive and sensual flamenco displays the heroine's uncompromising attitude towards love and her fearless fight for freedom — truly demonstrating the gypsy characteristics of boldness and passion.

Time: 7:30 P.M., Nov. 21

Venue: Qintai Grand Theater (琴台大剧院)

Tickets: ¥80, ¥180, ¥280, ¥380, ¥480, ¥680, ¥880

CONCERT

Berlin Youth Choir

The Berlin Youth Choir was founded in 1958 under the symphony orchestra of the Berlin State Opera. Its current art director and conductor is Vinzenz Weissenburger. The choir has 90 members aged from 18 to 40. It has given many tour concerts and performances around Europe and South America. By cooperating with the symphony orchestra of the Berlin State Opera and the Berlin Youth Orchestra, the award-winning chorus has established itself as a bridge of artistic communication.

Time: 7:30 P.M., Nov. 24

Venue: Qintai Concert Hall (琴台音乐厅)

Tickets: ¥80, ¥120, ¥180, ¥280, ¥380

The Unreachable Stars concert

The band was formed by Jeremy Stolle, a leading performer of Broadway's Phantom of the Opera, and some of his amazing Broadway artist friends. Composed by James Morgan and based on Broadway musicals, New York popular music and interludes of the dance drama Moulin Rouge, their repertoire features rich orchestral performances and powerful singing in which pop songs are interpreted in various languages in a dynamic balance between modern and classical styles.

Time: 7:30 P.M., Nov. 17

Venue: Wuhan Theater (武汉剧院)

Tickets: ¥80, ¥120, ¥180, ¥280

"Tearing Me Up" — Bob Moses

Bob Moses is a Canadian electronic duo from Vancouver. Consisting of Tom Howie and Jimmy Vallance, the duo has been active on major music platforms since 2012. Their soothing, brisk and refined voices remind listeners of James Blake Trentemoller and New Order. The band has perfectly integrated indie rock, trance rock, electronic music, dance music and other musical elements. Their song "Tearing Me Up" won a Grammy Award nomination for best dance recording and a Grammy Award for best remixed recording, non-classical. This year sees their first tour in China.

Time: 8:30 P.M., Nov. 23

Venue: VOX LIVEHOUSE

Tickets: ¥280