

Wuhan Union Hospital continues to mentor international talent

By Wu Wei

On the occasion of Teacher's Day, four medical graduate students from Thailand, Palestine, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates gave flowers and greetings to their mentor, Chen Lili, director of the Center for Oral Health at Wuhan Union Hospital on September 7. In recent years, Director Chen has taught over 30 international students from more than 20 countries including the Republic of Korea, Spain, Russia, Thailand and Albania.

Chen Lili (middle) with her students Photo by Liu Kunwei

As a leading teaching hospital in China, Wuhan Union Hospital attracted medical students and even doctors from European and American universities to gain medical knowledge, engage in scientific research and conduct clinical practice. At present, Wuhan Union Hospital has 48 Bachelor of Medicine, Bachelor of Surgery (MBBS) students from more than 20 countries who are in clinical practice. Since 2012, the number of international medical students who have studied here has reached 315. In addition to the long-term international students who have pursued their degrees here, Wuhan Union Hospital has nearly 20 medical students from prestigious universities in the U.S., U.K., and Germany to participate in the medical residency training programs.

White fox makes home at WHU

By Chen Qixiong

The snow-white fox

A snow-white fox has been seen trotting around on the Luojia Mountain of Wuhan University, often having been observed walking on the woody paths. Its cute demeanor has attracted the attention of many passersby who stop and take photos. It is not afraid of humans and is willing to interact with people when it finds that they have no malicious intentions.

A red fox has also been seen on the mountain for the past two or three years. The red fox is popular with both teachers and students. Even family dogs have become friends of the fox and are sometimes seen playing with them.

University welcomes freshmen with new treats

By Yang Jiafeng

Over 4,000 freshmen coming from all over the country to the Changjiang Polytechnic College on September 4 got a lot of surprises with various gifts at the registration site.

The teachers and senior students wore traditional Chinese clothing like cheongsam and hanfu to welcome the newcomers. The freshmen from afar tasted delicious moon cakes and various kinds of health teas, as well as sampled skin care products and cosmetics. The hand creams, soaps, lipsticks and other skin care products were hand-made by students using the school's pharmaceutical equipment. The different kinds of moon cakes are produced by the teachers and students from the food quality and safety department.

Freshmen said that they came to have a clear vision about their major and future career direction after they had received these hand-made gifts.

School of twins

The 15 pairs of twins in Wuhan Optics Valley No. 15 Primary School Photo provided by the school

Wuhan Optics Valley No. 15 Primary School has 15 pairs of twins, with two male-female fraternal twins, ten pairs of boys, and three pairs of girls.

Teachers were completely confused by the twins at first and then they consulted the parents who then took some measures to make distinguishing them easier. For the boys, they would pin a attention-catching badge on their clothes, and for the girls they would bind their hair in a different styles.